

Typology: Two Innate Types Of Thinking – Developmental And Destructive

June 11, 2024

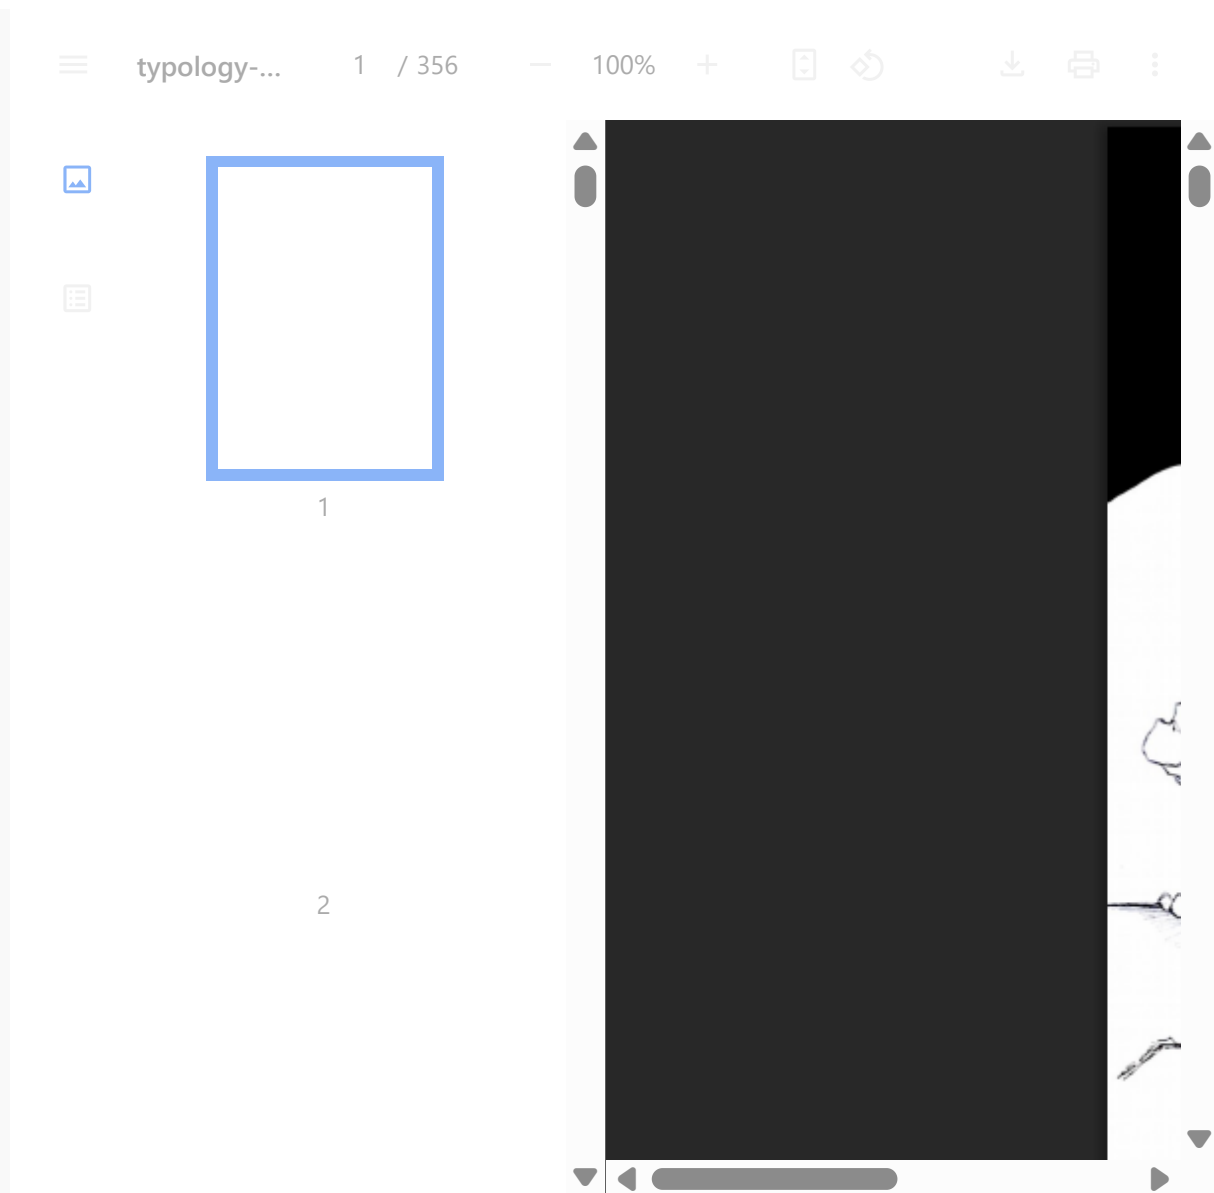

In 2020, we wrote and published this book for the first time. Since then, we have discovered even more interesting and more specific patterns in the relationships of different groups of people. But the basis that some people are created to develop this world and others to destroy it remains the same. In the same year 2020, this book was written in a different language, but has now been translated into English. In addition, in this edition we have revised the book in some places and added new information that we have been able to research and understand over the last couple of years.
